HAPPY, happy States. Colorado, Delaware, Kentucky, West Virginia and Wisconsin have no public debt. California, Illinois, talked of for Hayes's successor, with Hanlowa, Kansas, Michigan, Nebraska, Nevada, New Jersey, Oregon and Vermont have small State debts, and have them secured by sinking funds. Massachusetts's State debt at the beginning of this year was $33,200,-000, of which $11,000,000 could be paid by her sinking fund. Pennsylvania has a debt of $23,000,000 and a sinking fund of $9,000,-000. New York's debt is now all paid but accommodated by Captain Davis. $9,000,000, which she owes for her canal. Without my advice at all upon the question, I will venture to say that the attitude of the gentlemen from the southern States will be such as to disappoint the irreconcilables of the opposition, who have, I see, already begun an effort to array a solid north against a solid south. We will probably have little to say in reply to Radicals of this stamp. Our a is will speak more emphatically for us. Sectionalism was killed last Tuesday, and long before 1800 the "solid south" and the "solid north" will be forgotten terms. The people of the south have known for thirdeen years that the war was at an end, but these long range Radicals and latter-day warriors cannot, seemingly, be brought to a realization of this fact. The revival of the charges that it is our settled policy to saddle the war debt of the Confederacy upon the country is absurd—contemptibly so-and it passes my comprehension how any intellingent reader can receive such reckless inventions with patience. The south is now as close a part of the Union as is New England. Virginia has the same interest in the general prosperity of the country as Massachusetts and her representatives, and the representatives of the south will be found to be as active in support of all measures tending to the general good of all sections of the country as the gentlement from Maine or Vermont.
